GENEALOGICAL COMPUTING

The Invercargill sub-group is part of the NZ-wide Genealogical Computing (Special Interest) Group, and is made up of local people who have an interest in using computers for genealogy. The group meets monthly, on the fourth Thursday evening of each month at 7.00pm, in the SeniorNet Rooms, Southland Education Building, 100 Esk Street, via the ground floor (carpark) entrance.

Secretary : Wendy Shaw (027-431 5714).
The local group charges $2 per evening to cover room hire and supper.

A magazine GenCom News is published four times per year by GCG, the national body. A separate subscription of $15 is payable for joining the national body. Their web-page is at

NEW ZEALAND SOCIETY OF GENEALOGISTS Inc.

The Southland Branch is part of the New Zealand Society of Genealogists, but joining the Southland Branch does not mean that you are also a member of the national body. A separate subscription is required. The benefits of joining the New Zealand Society are many :

- You will receive the Society's magazine (The New Zealand Genealogist) every two months.
- Access to a greater range of resources : library books, microfiche, overseas magazines, specialist advisors dealing with problems in the UK, Ireland and Europe, postal research services, and cheaper access to the English Births, Deaths and Marriages.
- Use of the NZSG Kiwi Collection with over 9 million records: exclusive to members.
- An annual conference is held, with excellent speakers brought to New Zealand from overseas.

Application forms are available from the Southland Branch Secretary, or by writing to :
